

Additionally, a dissemination strategy is considered key to the circulation of books and knowledge about authors.

Consequently, the Programme, with the collaboration of the Ministry of Cultures, the Arts and Heritage, provides financial support for the attendance and participation of authors in dissemination activities, at instances considered to be strategic towards the international literary and art scene such as book fairs and poetry festivals, among others.

During the past seven years,

the Chilean Ministry of Foreign Affairs, through its Division of Cultures, Arts, Heritage and Public Diplomacy (DIRAC), has supported and granted projects for the translation of Chilean literature.

The translation projects carried out to date comprise languages as diverse as

Japanese | Arabic
German | Greek
Italian | French
English | Turkish
Albanese | Korean
Polish | among others

About the Programme

It is managed by the Chilean Ministry of Foreign Affairs, through its Division of Cultures, Arts, Heritage and Public Diplomacy (DIRAC), which aims to disseminate the work and thought of Chilean authors abroad, by publishing their works in other languages.

The purpose of this Fund is to finance,

whether totally or partially, projects of Foreign Publishers that seek to translate and printing Chilean literature works, whether fiction or non-fiction in the following genres: novel, short story, poetry, essay, graphic novel, children and youth literature, dramaturgy, and memory writings (epistolary writing, chronicles, autobiographies, biographies).

The call for projects is annual and it aims exclusively at foreign publishing houses.

The Terms and Conditions and the Application Form to the Translation Support Programme are available at the DIRAC website www.dirac.gob.cl. The publishing houses must apply for the funding through the platform located at the website.

Works to be translated must be from

Chilean authors, and have been previously published. The translation of unpublished material will not be financed.

In the case of illustrated books and graphic novels, applications can be accepted in which a Chilean author and foreign author share the copyright.

The amount requested for the translation and printing shall not exceed five thousand US dollars (US$ 5.000).

Publishing houses may submit a maximum of two projects in each call. All documents attached to the application must be in Spanish.
